

1,800 villagers treated at Seven eye camps by Madura Fashion & Lifestyle

06 June 2014

Helping people regain vision and return to a normal life is an immensely rewarding endeavour made possible through the dedication of our volunteers and the generous support of our partners.

The Madura Fashion & Lifestyle (MFL) Jan Kalyan Trust looks forward to continue serving people by easing their suffering when it comes to eye care and changing their lives for the better in the years to come.

Since the onset of the fiscal year 2013, MFL Jan Kalyan Trust has conducted seven eye camps across Bangalore's rural and urban areas, partnering with local village panchayats, Narayana Nethralaya and others.

Here is the scorecard of the seven camps:

- ✦ 1,810 people got their vision checked
- ✦ 710 people were provided spectacles, and
- ✦ 161 people have undergone successful cataract operations

About MFL Jan Kalyan Trust

The Jan Kalyan Trust has been raising awareness about eye care by organising eye camps in scores of villages over the past two years. Besides providing spectacles, cataract operations are also offered at the camps. The trust has partnered with several reputed hospitals from Bangalore, including Narayana Nethralaya, Dr. M. C. Modi Eye Hospital, Dr. Solanki Eye Hospital and Dr. Agarwal's Eye Hospital as well as the local panchayats.

It has been successful in creating awareness among around 5,000 villagers to date, and has provided 1,750 spectacles and successful cataract operations to 257 people in total.

The CSR activities of MFL are geared towards education, health, infrastructure, environment, sustainable livelihood and social causes. These activities are extended to communities living in and around its Bangalore manufacturing units.
