SHE IS BUILDING ON CIPLA’S DECADES-OLD LEGACY, WHILE MAKING IT FUTURE FIT

SAMINA HAMIED
Executive Vice Chairperson, Cipla
WHY SHE MATTERS
She is reaching the largest portfolio of medicines to treat Covid-19 patients.

The most powerful women in business

THESE ARE BUSY DAYS
For Samina Hamied, Executive Vice Chairperson, Cipla Ltd., her company has been reaching the largest portfolio of medicines to treat Covid-19 patients. As a third-generation member of the founding family of India’s leading pharmaceutical company, Hamied has proven that Cipla’s response to Covid-19 reflects the company’s DNA: putting patients first, caring for life.

The company has been at the forefront of responding to health crises globally, be it HIV/AIDS, Bird Flu or Swine Flu. In fact, it was Y.K. Hamied, Non-Executive Chairman and Samina Hamied’s uncle, who changed the global paradigm of AIDS treatment by announcing a triple anti-retroviral therapy at less than $1 a day in Africa in 2001. “Today, yet again, Cipla has stepped forward to combat Covid-19 on all fronts through our largest portfolio of Covid offerings and our access-enabling efforts for treatment of Covid-19,” says Hamied. “We have set up a ‘Caring for Life’ Covid-19 dedicated fund to support patients, augment the healthcare ecosystem and sustain communities,” says Hamied. “We have also made good progress with our ‘One India’ approach for achieving greater synergies among our businesses in India.”

The company’s US focus has been primarily driven by Hamied. Her next agenda is transition in the mindset of the company — from illness to wellness. “We took major steps towards growing Cipla Health (a business division) into a holistic wellness player,” she adds.

SHANTI EKAMBARAM HEADS A CONSUMER BANKING PORTFOLIO OF 780,000 CRORE

By ANAND ADHIKARI

AFTER ACQUIRING Pantaloon from Future Group in 2013, Aditya Birla Fashion Retail Ltd was struggling to turn around the fashion retailer in the face of stiff competition from cash-rich online platforms and offline retailers. The choice of Sangeeta Pendurkar, who was earlier Managing Director of Kellogg India, for the role of CEO was a well thought out plan to revive the business. She had a career spanning across five companies in four different sectors — from pharma to packaged foods to banking— before joining Pantaloon in December 2017. Pendurkar came up with a revival strategy within six months of joining. She introduced new portfolios, including women’s ethnic wear, and acquired the Jaypore brand.

The new strategy helped the fashion retailer register organic growth after six years of stagnation, despite the slowdown in the consumer market in the last couple of years. It went up from a negative like-to-like growth (a measure of growth in sales) in 2017/18 to 14 per cent growth in 2018/19, and 6 per cent in 2019/20.

Leadership is all about accepting differences with humility, finding a common ground and resolving conflicts objectively and with respect, says Pendurkar, who leads a team of 8,000 people.

“The CEO should encourage a culture of openness and experimentation, so that employees will be confident enough to voice their opinions and collectively building on each other’s ideas,” she adds.

Pantaloons’ profitability has doubled in last three years. The operating ROCE (return on capital employed) has moved from negative to more than 15 per cent.

She is also an independent director on the board of Vistara Airlines, a joint venture between Singapore Airlines and Tata Group.

autistic kids to move to Zoom classes, besides sticking to her three a week fitness training regime. “The last six months have taught us how to change mindsets and behaviours, whether it was our employees or our customers,” says Ekambaram. The bank also had the first-mover advantage when it launched fully digital, zero-contact savings and deposit accounts during the lockdown. “Our focus is digital in acquiring, engaging, transacting and servicing our customers.” She is managing a portfolio of over 780,000 crore with a focus on savings, protection, investments, retail lending and transactions. “We have a strategy to build the portfolio brick by brick. The areas of growth are secured retail, especially home loan, loan against property (LAP) for business banking, working capital etc,” she says. Home loan and LAP constitute about 22 per cent of the bank’s book, and offer a huge runway for growth. Under her leadership, the bank has managed to secure the highest CASA ratio of 56.7 per cent, “Our cost of fund is one of the lowest in the industry,” says Ekambaram.
